Minecraft musket texture pack

Personalized weapons is a package of resources that was designed for players who like firearms and are not necessarily happy with the batch of guns that the vanilla minecraft comes with. As the name suggests, this package is designed to implement new weapons in the game and, all things considered, these weapons are quite extraordinary. There were similar packages before, but this definitely seems to be at another level entirely in terms of its quality, and you should definitely consider experiencing you if you think you could use the weapon models in the game somehow. Before we enter any detail about the package, we want to point out that personalized weapons are only textures for the weapons and nothing more. Because of this, you really should not try this hand if you are looking for something that will revise the game, look entirely. However, if you are well with the way the game looks and simply want to implement these weapons in the game, then the package of custom weapons must be more than enough. As for own weapons, there are 34 different weapons in the package now, and there is a wide variety that varies from rifles of rifles to rifles, so you are forced to do something you like while using the package. The textures of the personalized weapon resource package have a resolution of x16 and this, paired by the fact that this package does not change any of the terrain of the game, means that the performance of your game will remain exactly as It is and will not be reduced until the smallest bit that is, of course, a great news for players playing minecraft in low-end PCs. How to install the custom weapon resource package? Get Minecraft. Click "Options" from the Start menu. Click "Resource Packs" in the Options menu.
