In 1998 I swapped my 1996 honda for the 89 cause I thought it would be more r.The only little problem with mine was it had a pretty bad oil leak. No one could tell me where it was coming from and it kept ruining.Borrowing an idea from the previous generation, Honda said goodbye to the third generation Accord by offering a luxurious special edition. Otherwise, the Accord stayed mostly the same. The DX was the base model, while upgrading to the LX gets power windows and doors, while the loaded LXI gets a bigger engine. The special edition SEI was luxuriously equipped, with leather seats, a Bose sound system, and alloy wheels. The base engine was a 2.0liter 98 horsepower four cylinder, while the LXI and SEI came with a 2.0liter, 120 horsepower four cylinder. They have excellent reputations as solid, durable cars. Some drivers do find them to be on the small side for a family, and others grumble about the lack of cup holders. My 86 Accord LXI is insanely still a good car. They outsold Camry nearly 31 in 86. So I bought the 89 SEI knowing what a great car. Paid too much but had to have it.They are a little underpowered which Im glad for because the longevity of the engine is increased holding it to 120 bhp. Wish I had the stick but you know what the automatic is also great. The gal that owned it since new is now 83 years old and was still waxing it herself.

What a doll to talk to. The car is likely pristine so she is a hard act to follow. I have my work cut out to keep it as nice. Cheers. as she would say. Has anyone else had this problem or know how to fix it Thanks, WillC or less it just turns over but wont fire. Its like its not getting fuel. It has a new fuel filter, new cap and rotor, ne. Available as a saloon or tourer, the Accord has been on our roads since the 1970s and offers outstanding value when compared to other cars in the class. For more information visit the Motors.co.uk search facility Vauxhall, Honda and Toyota have all said they would be "keen to assist". 17032020 There was a major upgrade in 2003 and another in 2008 and these created a car with extremely stylish looks and excellent performance. Each upgrade of the Honda Accord moved it progressively further up the market and with the version launched in 2008, the car is now competing with luxury executive saloon manufacturers such as BMW and Audi. Whether you are interested in an up to date Honda Accord or one that is a little older, you can be assured that when it comes to engines Honda really excels. Whatever the vintage of your Accord, you will find an engine choice that offers the best of the then current technology in engine design. Naturally technology moves forever forward, and the new engines are both high performers whilst giving excellent fuel economy. The Honda Accord has grown in stature and there is a model to suit a wide range of tastes and life styles. Whether you need a family car, an executive saloon, or an older model as a good entry vehicle, they all represent good value. The Honda Accord TypeR is the high performance version of the car. It develops 220 bhp from its 2.2 litre VTEC engine and has much stiffer suspension than the other models. The handling is said to be sublime and it also sounds the part.

View More Info Covers all aspects of vehicle repair and maintenance, for engine, gearbox, front axle, steering, suspension, brakes, body panels, interior components and electrical system including wiring diagrams and diagnostics advice. It had a very striking exterior design styled by Toshi Oshika in 1983, that resonated well with buyers internationally. One notable feature was the hidden headlamps. Because this generation was also sold as the Honda Vigor, the Accord received the hidden headlamps.

Honda's Japanese dealership channel called Honda Verno all had styling elements that helped identify products only available at Honda Verno. As a result, Japanese market Accords had a Honda Verno styling feature, but were sold at newly established Japanese dealerships Honda Clio with the allnew, luxury Honda Legend sedan, and international Accords were now visually aligned with the Prelude, the CRX, and the new Integra. Accords of this generation for the European market did not have the concealed headlamps. We are still open for business. Menu 0 We are still open for business.
