Since its founding in 1938, Detroit Diesel has produced more than 5 million units, of which at least 1 million is still in operation. In 1965, Detroit Diesel went into "free swimming", and in 1970 entered a new stage of development, merging with the developer of gas turbines Allison Division. In 1987, the company revolutionized the market by launching a series of power units with electronic control system DDEC. The innovation allowed to reduce the consumption of oil and fuel, and automate the work of engines. Some series for example, S50, S149 are no longer produced, but the company continues their service.
