Driver Certification Program Manual

The materials are now in production and will be available shortly as an offtheshelf program to OTA member fleets wishing to upgrade their Driver Certification Program DCP to meet the new standards for Mandatory Entry Level Training in Ontario kicking in July 1, 2017. OTA will begin offering the curriculum package to training providers in the next 1 to 2 months. OTA felt it was necessary to provide its membership with a plugandplay option to comply with the new standards should they want to develop professional truck operators from within their own organizations," said Stephen Laskowski, OTA President. "DCP in a box will do this for carriers in a very cost effective manner, as well as streamline many of the other internal processes that come along with MTO's Driver Certification Program." A full briefing will take place on the new program. Click a category for more information. Please upgrade your browser or activate Google Chrome Frame to improve your experience. The National Training Center NTC serves as the national focal point for development and delivery of motor carrier safety training to enhance the capabilities of participating Federal, State, and local government officials. The mission of the NTC is to provide high quality motor carrier safety and law enforcement training to its customers to assist us in achieving our goal. Presenters, Instructors, and Master Instructors are key personnel for ensuring NTC courses are delivered accurately and effectively. The NTC Instructor Certification Program hereafter referred to as the "Instructor Certification Program" is designed to ensure that individuals serving in these roles can do so effectively and consistently. A CDL is a professional license permitting the holder of the license to drive those large commercial vehicles and buses on public roadways in Texas and in the United States. This license demonstrates that you have been trained, tested, and are qualified to safely operate large commercial motor vehicles. There are three basic classes of CDLs Depending upon what you will be transporting, you may need one or more of the following six endorsements. An endorsement allows you to operate certain types of commercial motor vehicles and transport specific items.

<http://dev.pb-adcon.de/node/19771>

There is additional testing required to obtain an endorsement and in some cases, if you already have a CDL you will be required to hold a commercial learner permit for that endorsement for at least 14 days before being able to add it to your CDL. You will be required to complete a comprehensive state and federal background check. For additional information visit our Hazardous Materials Endorsement webpage. When applying for a CDL it will be necessary for you to understand what type of commerce you will be operating in so that the correct type of license can be issued to you. If you apply for an interstate commerce CDL, it will allow you to operate in both interstate and intrastate commerce, unless you apply for an interstate CDL specifically to operate within a certain capacity. You may only certify to one form and one section. If there is not a Bill of Lading then the origin and destination of the shipment will be an indicator. Job opportunities for Class 3 drivers are widely available and typically provide a local driving route, regular days off, and being home every night! So I stayed positive and bulldozed every obstacle in my way. However, I prevailed, and set off to Grande Prairie, Alberta with my freshly printed Class 1 in my hand. Today I got my first truck driver job with Badger Daylighting, driving a triple axle Vac truck. I aced it, even though I had not driven a 18 speed triple axle before. Thanks to all of your amazing staff. They should share in this victory.

A staff member smiled at me from across the desk and asked how she could help me. I explained to her that I was a mere class 5 driver and I was ready to become a man, Class 1!! She built me the perfect schedule working around my work priorities telling me she had just the right instructor for me. As we hit the open road it could not have been more relaxed. until he had to hit his brake. Every lesson got better as he encouraged me along my way to manhood, also being sure to let me know what to improve upon. Through his careful guidance, I was able to get my Class 1 first try with no problems. The service that you have provided is beyond anything I could have ever imagined. A special thanks to my instructor for encouraging me and guiding me to this point I couldn't have done it without you thank you very much I appreciate everything. Very knowledgeable and friendly. He taught me in ways that was easy to remember and understand. I passed the pretrip inspection test and brake adjustment test on a Sunday then took the Airbrakes knowledge test the following day to get my endorsement. I got 100%. Keep up the great work. I have received my class 1 licence in the mail and just attended the Driving Your Career Forward class last night in Aldergrove, which was great. It's been a great experience and I'm really grateful to everyone involved who helped make it possible, and I'm really impressed and happy with the professionalism, knowledge, patience and humor I encountered at Valley, it all surpassed my expectations. The first study compared three levels of training on user knowledge and driving skill for utilizing SAE L2 systems in various driving scenarios in a simulated driving environment.

The second human subjects-based evaluation took place on a closed test track where a conventional means of training review of the owner's manual and an experimental program multimedia training were deployed to assess if a difference in driver knowledge, skill, or attitude toward automated systems was observed. This project is being closed due to the research team meeting all project objectives and deliverables. However, this study design did not find knowledge, trust, or performance differences based upon the type of training participants received. These combined results suggest that a “one size fits all” approach to ADAS training protocols will likely not be effective and that, instead, ADAS training protocols should be tailored to specific driver demographics. While it is generally acknowledged that many older drivers are safe and cautious drivers, making appropriate adjustments to their driving and travel behaviour, there is also evidence to suggest that there may be subgroups of older drivers who do not adopt selfregulatory driving behaviours. These groups may be at higher risk of crash involvement compared with other subgroups and may benefit greatly from targeted driver awareness, education and training programs.

While there is a continued international recognition of the benefits of such programs, there are few existing programs in Australia. This report describes the development of the program and a preliminary evaluation of its acceptability and effectiveness. In addition, the resource outlines strategies for successful reduction and cessation of driving and alternative transport options for older people. The instructional materials required to operate the program are provided as attachments to this report. These include an instructor’s manual, powerpoint slides, materials for program activities and an information booklet for program participants. Moreover, the great majority of older drivers found the program to be very worthwhile, very informative, educational and useful.
