Login to post All of a sudden it refused to accept any rewritable DVD, be it empty for formatting or be it for. If you can help thatll be great. No RF out, no tuner for recording. Theyre meant to work with the TVs AV inputs and some line input source for recording if its a recorder at all. There may just be no RF for you to be tuning to. If the player does in fact have RF out and you cant see it on either channel 3 or 4, take it back to the retailer if you can or contact the service number in the manual. It would have to be a defective unit. Check your tv instruction manual to see if it is at all possible. Chris.If not maybe the remote is bad, common just a loose battery lead, If you are able to go into menu, and set the clock, but unable to set timer record, look closely at you recordable tape to make sure on the left bottom from corner the the recording tab is in place, You can place scotch tape over this hole of existing tab to ensure it will go into record. Finally if it wont go into record when you try to use OTR, you make a problem with the record ready switch in the VCR section. Joe. The free user manual for this model is available as a pdf document and can be downloaded from the following site no email, security verification or registration required, just go there and click get this manual I hope this helps you or at least offers some guidance for you in VHS to DVD recording with your combo unit.If you can help thatll be great. But fortunately a few of us downloaded it a year or more ago before it was pulled. I tried uploading the manual to Fixya several times including just a short while ago. It seemed to upload successfully, but after performing a Fixya search its still nowhere to be found, just like many others Ive uploaded in the past. But dont worry! You can download it NOW from my personal User and Service Manual archive on OwnerIQ using the hotlink below. OwnerIQ encrypts all filenames within our personal folders for security purposes which endsup making them rather unreadable.Answer questions, earn points and help others. I saw one at Asda today for under 20, its tiny, and would be ideal for me to take with me when I travel as I can use the hotel room TV with it the player has a SCART output. I read somewhere that all the top brands try to keep a lid on compatability, because of illegal copying etc. The point is that the chipsets usually have compability, but the big companies spend money making them incompatible, hence the price differences So Im guessing that most cheap players will have no problem with what youre asking And Im not being funny, but 20 Surely its worth a gamble I thought that in the meantime I would see if anyone else here had one while I am waiting for stock to arrive or I drive past an alternative Asda during the course of working out of town. Thanks for the reply in any case. Loob. Would you have bought it Loob. Would you have bought it Loob. Knowing that then no i probably wouldnt of bought it. But if it had the remote and they knocked off a bit of cash then i might have as what good is a box id throw away and a manual id never read I am in the Manchester area on Thursday, maybe I will be lucky then. Loob. It is a little noisy, but 20 is a joke. Like you, I have one for when I go away and intend to leave it at work for the odd quiet weekend. Basically this player plays anything I have that is an authored DVDVideo disk. PQ is good and the unit is no noisier than my Yamada. You can hear it when accessing on chapter or title seek, but not during playback. It seems to interpret all my 169 flag settings correctly and set the TV to the correct aspect ratio. For 20, you cant go wrong with this ultraportable player. I also found the website for this player Loob. Its so small I cannot remember whereabouts I put it. Mine ticks quite a lot but I can live with it, out of interest, does the Scart output RGB. I intend to find this player soon! If it did i would be off to asda this afternoon looking for 1!! Def will get one for the bedroom.

Shame its not got scart but with s video and component thats good enough for me. Could always use an s vid to scart lead for those that dont have component or s video, Im off to asda to get one, what a steal. Thats what Ive been using it with. Loob. Toms Thumbs. Join the AVForums team live on Wednesdays at 7pm UK time. This list is based from user reports and we have Use them at your own risk. Read DVD Player region codes and Bluray region codes. Download free trial ! Download free trial ! It depends on when in May it manufactured as to which hack will work. Try both listed here. Good Luck switch on. open lid. press STOP on remote. The second hack worked with a DVD player from Walmart on 10Aug2006. Bought from Asda UK Jan 2007. Same model as on sale in Walmart US. Switch On. Open lid. Press STOP on remote. Enter code 2379 on remote. Press OK on remote. Close lid. Press STANDBY on player. Your player may already be set to region 0 if you bought it from Asda, so will play non region 2 disks with no hack required. I bought this specific player because I watch DVDs from all over the world and these hacks are listed on your site and they did not involve any complicated steps. This DVD player will not play DVDs without a menu. If you remove the menu from your dvds when you burn them, this player will NOT play them. I just bought the player last week. I have another one i bought long time ago with a manufacturing date of Dec 2006 and one of the hacks work on that one. Does anyone know a hack that would work on the new production. The Manufactured date is September, 2007 and the hack by Roman posted above worked for mine as well. I tried the earlier posted hack by JASK40, but JASK40 did not work on my unit. This is the hack that worked on my unit 1. Power on. 2. Open the lid. 3. Press STOP on remote. 4. Enter code 9753 on remote. 5. Region code list will appear on screen. You only have a few seconds and it will disappear.

If it disappears, just turn the power off and start again. This unit is very forgiving. Used the hack posted by Roman above, worked like a charm. 1. Power on. 2. Open the lid. 3. Press STOP on remote. 4. Enter code 9753 on remote. 5. Region code list will appear on screen. You only have a few seconds and it will disappear. If it disappears, just turn the power off and start again. This unit is very forgiving. My durabrand 1002 was purchase Jan 4 2008 and manufactured July 2007. Any other help anyone can give me. Discovered the player already set to region 0 in selection panel so no need to do anything more. The box DOES say WalMart, but Im clueless as to where to find the manufacture date Im a little slow, BUT.the 9753 code did the trick. This is probably the 4th or 5th time Ive found hack codes on this site, but the 1st time Ive stopped to say THANK YOU. ALL OF YOU, who make this info available!! YOU ALL ROCK, and youre all going to heaven. Then tried 1st region code hack by JASK40 and it worked but my menu did not have a region 9. I used region 0 instead and all is OK. That info may be of use to someone else. Thanks JASK40 for the hack. It covers the servicing, maintenance and repair of the product.
