To get the loudness and intensity of the sound it produces one would have to stack up several large speakers of other brands. You can literally hide the speakers and yet be immersed in sound from all sides. Easy to program and use as it serves as a wellfunctioning receiver as well. My 535 has my Roku, bluray player, Ipod and wireless transmitter for my projector Epson 5030 UBe connected to it. with ports to spare to connect my computer if I want to. The sound of course is as it should beits a treat to listen to anything play through it. music plays beautifully and the for movieslike being in a movie theater. I am very pleased with the bose system. I have been buying stereo equipment for my home and car for over 20 years and this is my first bose purchase other than headphones. First off, its extremely easy to set up. It learned all of my remotes with the exception of my Dish remote. Another plus with the bose system is the customer service. I called at an odd time, waited less than 5 minutes, and within 10 minutes my remote was programed. Yes, I could have paid half what I paid to put together a system that sounded just as good. However, I could not have gotten a system that was as easy to install, superior customer service, or build quality as the bose system. It just works and works well.

I really hesitated to purchase this due to the cost, at the end of the day I thought about how long I will own the system and went ahead. I am glad I did. Will return the system and get something else that is more reliable. No issues after the service and drop in sound or images after getting it repaired. Knocking out 1 star as Bose doesnt know what the underlying cause was and no explanation. Verdict Get the system you wont be disappointed with the performance. I am happy to drop my idea of going with Sonos as there is no comparison if you are a serious music lover. Sorry, we failed to record your vote. Please try again Sorry, we failed to record your vote.
