It makes it simple to adjust and find the most comfortable position for your child. After all, comfy strolling passengers are happy passengers! That's why Graco built this double stroller to have an easy, one-hand fold, so that busy moms and dads can fold the stroller without having to bend over. Once it's folded, the stroller is self-standing and has a convenient storage latch. The front seat, bench seat and the standing platform each hold child up to 50 lbs. In addition, the rear seat holds a child up to 40 lbs. The Ready2Grow has great longevity, which is a really important feature among baby strollers. In addition, the toddler bench seat lifts up, so that you can access the storage basket with ease. With 12 riding options, from infant to youth, your kids will love getting out and about. Stroller to be used only at walking speed. Product not intended for use while jogging, skating, etc. Never use bleach. Mariah Long 5.0 out of 5 stars We drove to a store who had it in stock and tried it out before purchasing. With a head and body support insert I feel safe using it with my newborn. I chose this model for our family for a few reasons. 1. We chose to use a convertible car seat over an infant carrier and this model has the Facetime seat. My infant is able to use the Facetime seat with a support insert.

2. <http://1worldlanguage.com/1worldlanguage/userfiles/bosch-vacuum-manual.xml>

My toddler can ride in the facetime seat if I need to recline the front seat for my infant to nap in at some point. 3. My toddler is already 2.5 and will out grow the front seat around the time my infant will transition from the facetime seat. He can then use he bench seat or standing option. It was quick and easy to put together with one person and required no tools. A snug fit for the trunk of my Odyssey, however, I could remove the canopies and tray to make for an easier transition. You do want to apply the brake BEFORE closing the stroller to avoid stubbing your toes. Tandem strollers take a bit more muscle to steer than single strollers, however, this model is not any more difficult than any other tandem IMHO. This model does not seem to take up any more space than the other tandems from what I have seen as well. A long stroller is pretty much what you should expect with a tandem. The only thing I would have preferred is for the facetime seat to have an adjustable back and the front seat to recline flat. You can get that with the duo, but you lose the face time. After much research and reading endless reviews I decided on this one. I love the versatility in seating options. Its heavy and bulky and when my daughter rides up front its hard to navigate but honestly, any double stroller will be heavy and bulky and my daughter rides almost exclusively in the back where she can sit or stand when she is tired, her legs are a smidge too long to rest comfortably on the footrest up front. The quick one hand fold is awesome, as is the foot brake. The only thing I would have changed is the parents tray. Two cup holders instead of just one would have made it perfect. Im glad I chose this stroller, it made our trip to the zoo much more pleasant!!! They both sit comfortably in the stroller. So far I have my older kid sitting in the front and my younger kid sitting in the rear seat facing me.

I was torn between using the car seat for her or the little seat that comes with the stroller. Also the footpart of the car seat goes kind of under the handle which means, she would have less room for her legs and almost that whole handle can not be used as a handle because of the carseat. As she is now pretty happy sitting up supported this is not a deal breaker for me. She loves that rear seat of the stroller. It leans further back than I expected which I like but the angle can not be adjusted. It navigates smoothly indoors and on pavement, dirt roads are kind of ok for short periods but this is definitely the limit for the wheels. It really is very easy to fold and unfold. Both canopies can turn almost 180 degree, so that they always have nice shade. There are some plastic foots next to the rear wheels sticking out which my husband is going to cut off. Their purpose is to enable the stroller to stand up once it is folded. Their disadvantage is that you kick it often while pushing. I would rather not smash my toes than being able to stand up the stroller when it is folded. Forgive me for being critical one more time, but I really would love that rear seat to be able to face forward. It took about 20 min to put it together. All you need is a screwdriver for two tiny screws everything else just clicks together. This stroller is not perfect, but pretty close for a toddler and an infant. I wish my hubby would let me return it. The handle bar is too low. I kick the step in between the wheels all the time. The so called cup holder is so small none of my beverages can fit. And the storage underneath is impossible to to put stuff in and out easily w two kids strapped in. Hate it hate it. Thx for listening. El seguro de freno es basico para el tamano y peso de la misma. Es pesada y toma mucho espacio de las cajuela aun si quitas el canopy lo cual la hace poco practica, sobre todo para mujeres que tienen actividad continua fuera de casa con los niños.

Con nuestra primera hija teníamos una Mc. Laren, la cual tiene mas seguridad pues cuenta con frenos delanteros y el seguro del bebe es mucho mas solido y seguro. Sorry, we failed to record your vote. Please try again However I suppose all double strollers are supposed to be heavier than their single counterparts. Except for the weight, which is something that I have now accepted, the product is amazing. Maneuvering the stroller is a breeze and folding and unfolding the stroller requires minimum effort. My kids, love it; I removed the rear seat because my 3.5 year old son was more comfortable on the bench seat that gave him more mobility as he is a very active child and doesn't like being pinned down to one place, however my younger son 10 months old is quite content and comfortable in his front seat. Prior to this we were using a single stroller that has been in use since my first child was born, the name of that stroller I am not mentioning here it is a highly recommended sponsored brand on Amazon India, an Indian brand. I do realize that new startups require the much needed support to capture the market but when their products are not up to the mark they end up losing customers in the long run. What I mean to say with all this blabbering is that the earlier stroller was a pain for us, the quality was pathetic and handling it required a lot of effort, the pain of handling it often made us lose our temper when we were out on family vacations and were using the stroller excessively. So when I found how easy it is to use this stroller I got very happy, it is just the weight of the product that made me hold back one star, or else I would have given it all 5 stars. How do you guys expect a new born or small baby will sleep in this cheap material. It's really disgusting please return my money and take your cheap plastic. Sorry, we failed to record your vote. Zaira I. 5.0 de 5 estrellas Compra verificada Estoy muy contenta por la compra Compra verificada Compra verificada First, I absolutely love that the seat can be positioned in so many ways, including turning it around completely to face you. It reclines almost flat, the calf support can be adjusted. I really love the feel of the seat as well, it is very comfortable and soft. The stroller can also fold quickly. BUT, the stroller is HEAVY. I personally would not be able to lift the 30lb stroller with my infant. The handlebar is not in a good position to be able to hold easily. When folded it is not as compact as I originally thought from the pictures. Most of all, the wheels are plastic and are horrible to even push on pavement. It has great maneuverability but it is tough to push with one hand. I am so upset because the other reviews were very good. Maybe it is because we are going from a stroller with air filled tires that is so easy to push. I was really hoping to find something that is lightweight, compact, and easy to maneuver. Nice quality fabric and very comfortable for my daughter love all the different ways to ride and the snack tray. Wish I would have found this stroller sooner. The only negative is its a little heavy and not quite as compact as I'd like. But still even with that being said its my favorite stroller and I've owned several different ones. Gracias por su comentario. Lo sentimos, no hemos podido registrar tu voto. Vuelva a intentarlo Compra verificada There are pins inserted into the wheel rod running from the two rear wheels that were a pain for me and not possible for my wife. Other than that, its very stylish and comfortable for my daughter. Its something she can grow in to and a stroller we will use for future children as well. This is not a hiking or even light trail stroller. I recommend rubber tires for that but it is great for the light walk on even side walks or shopping trips for maneuverability through aisles. The large shade is also very thick keeping the sun from my daughters face. She is very happy riding in this. My wife and I are very happy with the purchase. Gracias por su comentario. Vuelva a intentarlo Compra verificada To break it down is so easy as well, just a couple of clicks to remove the seat and then pulling on the cord and it snaps in half. I love how flat it is as well, it fits in my trunk easily. Gracias por su comentario. Lo sentimos, no hemos podido registrar tu voto. Vuelva a intentarlo Compra verificada Its big, comfortable, and has ample storage. I love that the material isnt the crinkly uncomfortable kind most strollers have. Its soft and well padded. Its easy to collapse and maneuver. It was easy to assemble and arrived undamaged. My only complaint is that its heavy and big. If youve got small trunk space, this might not be a good fit for you. But over all, Im very happy with this purchase. Gracias por su comentario. Lo sentimos, no hemos podido registrar tu voto.

Vuelva a intentarlo Compra verificada This is the new version, which is 26 lbs. I wanted the Graco 3 lite, which is 19 lbs but it was discontinued. Overall, it is easy to fold, but it is too heavy. If you live in NYC and need to go up and downstairs, I would never recommend this. Not good to carry on

Which was the problem of my other stroller. Easy to set up and fold up. I love that it's rear facing even if you can't fold it up that way. It covers up very well from the sun. My baby loved to take a nap on it today and felt what looked to be very comfortable. It is a little heavy but still love it besides that there ain't really much to complain about it. Gracias por su comentario. Lo sentimos, no hemos Vuelva a intentarlo Compra verificada I ended up keeping it because I didn't want to go through the hassle of returning it and also I just really wanted to go on a stroll with my baby. It is really heavy for me, not completely easy to open up when ready to use, and doesn't fit in my trunk. The plus side is that it's pretty comfy on the inside and the wheels are sturdy. Other than that I won't take it with me when traveling. Gracias por su comentario. Lo sentimos, no hemos podido registrar tu voto.

Vuelva a intentarlo Compra verificada Was semi easy to put together, and the baby loves to go for walks in it, i didnt think it was going to be so large in size but its worth it! Gracias por su comentario.
