Das Leben eines Abenteuer: FĂĽr den halbwĂĽchsigen Anthony Horowitz sieht es zunĂĽchst eher dĂĽster aus. Obwohl er in einer wohlhabenden Familie aufwĂĽcklich. Komplizierte VerhĂĽtnisse zu Hause, schreckliche Erlebnisse in der Internatsschule Anthony erfindet Geschichten, die ihn der lieblosen Enge entkommen lassen, und macht dies spĂĽter zum Beruf. Mit 23 verĂĽffentlicht der 1956 in Stanmore, Middlesex, geborene Horowitz sein erstes Buch. Seitdem produziert er geradezu manisch, z. B. neue Episoden seiner Serienhelden. Mittlerweile sind der junge Agent Alex Rider oder Matt aus der Reihe Die fĂĽnf Tore der Weltbekannt. Neben Abenteuerromanen verfasst Horowitz DrehbĂĽcher und Theaterstücke. Er lebt mit Frau, Kindern und Hund im Norden von London. Can You Chip In?The Internet Archive is growing faster than ever before, and we need your help. As an independent nonprofit, we build and maintain all our own systems, but we don't charge for access, sell user information, or run ads instead we're powered by donations averaging $30. Unfortunately, fewer than 1,000 of our patrons donate. We don't ask often, but right now, we have a 2-to-1 Matching Gift Campaign, tripling the impact of every donation. If each of our users gave just $3, we could end this fundraiser today! Brewster Kahle, Founder, Internet Archive New Books Premium Collection Classic Collection The cover of More Horowitz Horror More Horowitz Horror is the second book in the Horowitz Horror series. This article is a stub. You can help the Literawiki by expanding it. Author: Anthony Horowitz Illustrator: Mick Brownfield Publisher: Walker Books The playful ironies hovering around the title of this blood-curdling story collection encapsulate its tone which teeters deliciously on the cusp of scary and knowingly sharing a good joke. Anthony Horowitz respects his readers, and trusts them to know their way around the genre. 'The Man Who Killed Darren Shan' gently mocks over-the-top horror and its practitioners! Ending with a nasty twist: 'Plugged In' and 'My Bloody French Exchange' revel in the world of the un-dead, whilst the genuinely shocking Game Show in 'Bet Your Life' and Jennifer's demise in 'SheBey' take aspects of modern life to their extremes. These inventive stories turn on those moments when 'things change in an instant ... to show something horrible on the other side.' Entertaining and unsettling in equal measure! "Light Moves" - Henry gets a haunted computer from his dad that can predict the winner of horse races. Henry and his friend Leo visit the racetrack but since he's only sixteen he can't place a bet. Garrett used to be a bully at their school and Henry asks him to place the bet for him. After Garrett... Read more... "Light Moves" - Henry gets a haunted computer from dad that can predict the winner of horse races. Henry and his friend Leo visit the racetrack but since he's only sixteen he can't place a bet. Garrett used to be a bully at their school and Henry asks him to place the bet for him. After Garrett wins twice in a row he decides to acquire the golden goose for himself. He knows Henry will never reveal his trick so he beats the truth out of Leo and waits until Henry's parents have left the house to steal Henry's computer. Henry threatens to call the police but Garrett gives him some of the winnings and says he'll claim that he bought the computer from him. Henry just wants Garrett out of the house so he doesn't try to stop him. After Garrett starts the computer he demands a name and two words appear on the screen "Light Moves." Garrett is convinced it must be a horse in an upcoming race so he scoops up the computer and dashes out of the house to his car. The two boys hear a tremendous crash and investigate. The computer has been destroyed and Garrett is killed in a collision with a van with the letters "Light Moves" printed on its side. "The Monkey's Ear" - Bart buys a monkey's ear for thirty dollars while vacationing with his parents in Marrakesh. The ear is supposed to grant four wishes but when Bart's father Brian wishes for a Rolls Royce an Asian man appears at the door and hands them rice rolls for takeout. The next wish is for a ton of money but when looking for motorists to ticket Brian receives a tin of honey. The third time Brian makes a wish he asks for his hair back again but that evening the house is hit by a hurricane. Bart realizes that the ear is working but it's a deaf monkey. Both father and son fight over the ear and Brian exclaims "I wish you'd go to Hell!" Bart vanishes. "The Night Bus" - Nick and his brother Jeremy board the night bus in order to return home but as the bus makes its stops the people who get on board appear to Nick to be more dead than alive. Eventually Nick becomes so disturbed by the experience that he jostles his sleeping brother awake and they depart the bus as it waits for a red light to change. The following morning Nick's mother tells him that the type of bus he's described hasn't been on the road for thirty years and the stops it was making were at all West London's cemeteries which causes Nick to faint. "Scared" - A woman takes her bratty kid out into the countryside to visit her mother's place and the kid disregards his grandma's instruction to stay on the footpath and becomes lost. Eventually he catches sight of the cottage across a field and angrily makes his way toward it, vowing to commit arson, stopping only to rest upon a pole midway through the field. The countryside has another idea for the young hooligan getting some use of him by converting him into a scarecrow. "The Man with the Yellow Face" - A man taking pictures in a photo booth receives a premonition warning in form of a photo of an ugly man with a yellow face. At first he thinks the car is broken, but when it comes time to get on a train he starts to worry that the man with the yellow face might be a dangerous psychopath on board. The train derails and is badly burned. Since he did not listen to the fate of warning he had provided that he became the man with the yellow face. Matthew buys a camera from a guy who had the camera and used it in some kind of black-magic ritual. He took a picture of a demon and the demon either killed him or scared him away and now he's inside the camera. Every time you take a picture with the camera, you kill whatever you're aiming for. "Harriet's Horrible Dream" - The story goes that Harriet is having a dream that her father sold to a restaurant owner who turns to cannibals but the end contradicts that as Harriet opens her eyes to find her she is tied to a slab of marble in the kitchen as the chef prepares onions. "In Career in Computer Games" - Kevin answers a job advertisement for Galactic Games and finds a live participant in a deathmatch game played with real weapons. Weapons.
